

Important Note to Teachers

The media links associated with these activities are best used within a pedagogical framework, rather than standalone videos/images, shown in isolation. They can be embedded within a structured lesson or series of lessons, where the concepts are introduced before student viewing; some of the videos may also require a debriefing session with students because of their confronting content.

As is good pedagogical practice, please view the material beforehand and use teacher discretion as to the context in which it is shown.

Please also be mindful to explain to students to use their own critical reflection as to how Jesus is represented within video portrayals.

Thank you for your assistance in delivering these activities.
